

ABSTRACT

Generally, in one embodiment, a license mounting plate, configured for adapting to a vehicle, comprises a mounting member, a license holding member and holding members. The mounting member is designed to attach to a rear of a vehicle. The license holding member is designed to hold a license plate. The holding members are adapted to securely support a pair of turn signals.